- For the preparation of this valuation report, we have followed Indian valuation standards issued by ICAI with effect from 01st July 2018. We understand that the valuation standard prescribed by ICAIRVO also resembles the internationally accepted pricing methodologies approach. Hence, we collectively term that they both complement each other.
- According to Indian valuation standard 102 and according to the scope present in the engagement letter as per valuation standard 201, we have valued share business at fair value basis.
- Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the valuation date.

Valuation methodology

Indian VS 103 provides guidance to select an appropriate valuation approach and methodology for determining the value of an asset, liability, or business. The main three valuation approaches are as follows:

1. Market approach
2. Income approach
3. Cost approach

Market approach

A valuation approach that uses prices and other relevant information generated by market transactions involving identical or comparable (i.e., similar) assets, liabilities, or a group of assets and liabilities, such as a business. Commonly used valuation methods under the market approach are as follows:

- Market price method
- Comparable Companies Multiple (CCM) method/ guideline public Company method
- Comparable Transaction Multiple (CTM) method/ guideline transaction method.

Income approach

A valuation approach that converts maintainable or future amounts (e.g., cash flows or income and expenses) to a single current (i.e., discounted or capitalized) amount. The fair value measurement is determined on the basis of the value indicated by current market expectations about those future amounts.

Commonly used valuation methods under the income approach are as follows:

- Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) method
- Relief from royalty method
- Multi-Period Excess Earnings Method (MPEEM)
- With and without method

- Option pricing models such as Black-Scholes- Merton model and the binomial model.

Cost approach

A valuation approach that reflects the amount that would be required currently to replace the service capacity of an asset (often referred to as current replacement cost). Commonly used valuation methods under the income approach are as follows:

- Book Value or Net Assets Value Method
- Replacement Cost Method.
- Reproduction Cost Method.

Selection of method

As we understand the detailed approaches prescribed above, we understand that we broadly have 3 methods to choose from the above prescribed approaches, viz. cost approach, income approach or market approach.

Asset approach

The general principle behind asset-based valuation methods is that the value of an enterprise is equal to the Fair market value of its assets less the Fair market value of its liabilities. The Fair market values of the component assets and liabilities may themselves be obtained or estimated using a variety of methods, including market based or income-based methods. The asset-based approach is most useful when applied to tangible assets and to companies whose assets consist primarily of tangible assets. This approach establishes value based on the cost of reproducing or replacing each asset, less depreciation from physical deterioration and functional obsolescence. The asset-based approach is applied primarily to enterprises in Stage 1 and some enterprises in Stage 2, before the company is likely to have built substantial intangible value. There is limited or no basis to apply a market approach, since there are no comparable market transactions. Under asset-based approach we are avoiding the cost or Liquidation Value Method, because it assumes the discontinuance of the business as a going concern and this does not hold true in the case of ICFSL.

Income approach

We can select income method because the Company's growth prospects are well defined on achieving the growth rate. The Company has started generating revenue, thereby giving a comfortable zone for Company to expand its users and content and interface over the platform. Accordingly, it is fair to value the Company by discounting its free cash flow which they are going to receive in the future.

In such a scenario, Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) shall be a better value to determine the fair value of shares.

Market approach

Under the Market method, we have two key methods: -

- Company Comparable
- Transaction Comparable

In Company Comparable method, we need to value the shares based on ratios or multiples of a listed comparable Company. However, it is extremely difficult to identify a similar listed Company with the same benchmark and difficult to get a valuation through the same.

The final approach is a comparable transaction method. It is also not possible to use this method since we do not have any observation present in this sector to check to be commensurate with the size of the business. Hence, we cannot consider the same as an independent transaction nor the same can be used for benchmarking.

Methodology adopted – Discounted-free Cash Flow method

In simple terms, DCF tries to work out the value of a Company today, based on projections of how much money it's going to make in the future. DCF analysis says that a Company is worth all of the cash that it could make available to investors in the future.

DCF analysis requires one to estimate the factors that affect a Company, such as future sales growth and profit margins. It also makes one consider the discount rate, which depends on a risk-free interest rate, the Company's cost of capital and the risk its stock faces. All of this will give one an appreciation for what drives share value, and that means one can put a more realistic price tag on the Company's stock.

Valuation assumptions in applying DCF approach

1. The forecast periods

The first assumption for doing DCF analysis is to determine how far out into the future we should project cash flows. In view of the above, our discounted cash flow needs to forecast the amount of free cash flow that the Company will produce for this period. As forecasted by the management, there is enough demand for services of InCred Capital Financial Services Limited to maintain seven years of revenue stream; therefore, the Company has forecasted cash flows for the next seven years of business i.e., forecasted cash flows till March 2032.

2. Forecasting free cash flow to equity shareholders

In order to estimate the free cash flow to equity shareholders that InCred Capital Financial Services Limited will produce over the next seven years, the procedure followed by the Company is to assess the demand for its product, forecasting sales to be made, plan the investment it needs to achieve the targeted sales, forecast revenue growth over that time period and then by breaking down after-tax operating profits, estimated capital expenditure and working capital requirements resulting in the estimated cash flow, the Company at a firm level will produce from the free cash flows of the firm, net borrowings needs to be added to get free cash flows to equity shareholders. A statement of projected balance sheet, projected profit and loss account, cash flow detailing operating profits, earning, estimated capital expenditure, working capital change, net borrowings as estimated by the management of ICFSL is as per Annexure attached to this report.

3. Calculating the discount rate

A discount rate is basically the weighted average cost of capital (WACC). The WACC is essentially a blend of the cost of equity and the after-tax cost of debt. Weighted average cost of capital as equal to weighted cost of equity plus weighted cost of debt. ICFSL has debt obligations and accordingly we have taken the weight of debt as shown in the computation of WACC.

For purposes of this analysis, various risk rates applicable to historic and projected earnings have been estimated. Generally stated, these risk-adjusted rates reflect the expected rate of return attainable on alternative investment opportunities with comparable risk. This discount rate, which is applied to the free cash flows, should reflect the opportunity cost to all the capital providers (namely shareholders and creditors), weighted by their relative contribution to the total capital of the Company. This is commonly referred to as the weighted average cost of capital (WACC). I have derived the weighted average cost of capital ("WACC") from the cost of equity calculated using the Modified Capital Asset Pricing Model ('CAPM'). Modified CAPM model is based on a combination of risk factors including a Risk-free rate, a Market equity risk premium, a size premium and other identifiable risk factors specific to the subject company.

Valuation Report: InCred Capital Financial Services Limited

This discount rate represents the total return, in terms of cash flows and appreciation in value that an investor would require in order to make an equity investment in the subject company.

Modified CAPM Model

Expected Return on Equity (Cost of Equity/Ke) = $R_f + \text{Beta} \times (R_f - R_m) + R_s + R_{sp}$

R_f	Risk free rate as on the valuation date
Beta	Beta measures the riskiness of an individual security in relation to market portfolio
R_m	Average return from market portfolio
R_p = (R_f-R_m)	R_f Expected equity risk premium on the market
R_s	Small stock premium
R_{sp}	Company-specific risk premium

R_f - Risk-free rate: This is the amount obtained from investing in securities considered free from credit risk, such as fixed deposits, Government bonds, etc. Accordingly, we have considered risk-free rate of the 10-year Indian Government bond yield rate from [Reserve Bank of India - NSDP Display \(rbi.org.in\)](http://Reserve Bank of India - NSDP Display (rbi.org.in)) β – Beta: Systematic risk is measured in the CAPM by a factor known as beta. Beta measures the volatility of the changes in share prices of a Company compared to the changes in the market for all listed companies that make up that market. Systematic risk elements relating to the industry structure include entry barriers, expected rivalry threat, substitution threat, and suppliers' and buyers' power threat. For the purpose of our valuation, on conservative principle, we have considered the beta of ICFSL as 0.29 times the market beta of 1. We have adopted the rate by taking the average beta of the sectors adopted from the famous valuer – Damodaran's website www.steyn.nyc.edu. Betas for January 2025.

Return from market portfolio (R_m) & Small stock premium (R_s): The opportunity cost to the capital provider equals the rate of return the capital provider expects to earn on other investments of equivalent risk. The expected rate of return from equity is taken on the basis of the average year-on-year growth in terms of the percentage of stocks under the NIFTY 500 during the last 10 years. The calculation of the average year-on-year growth is depicted as under:

NIFTY 500	Value
30-November-25	23,933.20
1-December-15	6,712.50
Market Return (Compounded Annually)	13.55%

Source for the figure: nseindia.com

Thus, in the above calculation, R_m (Average return from market portfolio) is 13.55% and R_s (Small Company premium) is taken as NIL. Premium for Company specific risks is considered at 10.00%.

- ❖ We have considered a Discount on Lack of Marketability (DLOM) of 15.00% for the calculation of equity value.

Fair Value of Enterprise Value as per Discounted Cash Flows

A fair value of the business of the Company is calculated by deriving the present value of future cash flow and terminal value. The same has been computed as per the following formula:

$$DCF = \frac{CF_1}{(1+r)^1} + \frac{CF_2}{(1+r)^2} + \dots + \frac{CF_n}{(1+r)^n}$$

Where, CF = Cash flow

r = Expected rate of return (W.A.C.C)

Computation of the Terminal Value

On the estimation of the free cash flow produced over the seven-year period, I have estimated Company's cash flows after that period using the "terminal value" approach on the assumption of going concern.

Terminal value of cash flows is computed considering the value of the Company as perpetuity using the Gordon Growth model. The model uses this formula:

$$TV = \frac{FCF_n * (1 + g)}{(r - g)}$$

Where, n = Last projected year

g = Growth rate

Calculating the Fair Market Value of shares

The free cash flow of the Company is as follows:

(In INR Crores)

Particulars	FY 25-26 7months	FY 26-27	FY 27-28	FY 28-29	FY 29-30	FY 30-31	FY 31-32
PV of FCFE	541.98	326.98	729.01	497.32	731.08	518.08	459.40

Pre-Money Value (as per Discounted Cash Flows)

= PV of cash flows as explained above + PV of terminal value + Surplus available – Loans taken

= INR 63,63,90,59,219.30 /-

Value of Equity

Fair Value of Equity is as follows:

Fair Value per Share = Pre-Money value / No of fully diluted shares
 = INR 63,63,90,59,219.30 / 1,50,44,685 shares
 = INR 4,230.00 per share
